Alexis Kagiliery named to National Child Passenger Safety Board

Board ensures integrity and quality of national CPS Certification Training Program

Itasca, IL – The National Child Passenger Safety Board (NCPSB) is proud to announce the appointment of Alexis Kagiliery to its Board. Kagiliery, the program manager of Safe Kids Worldwide’s Buckle Up initiative, will serve as an appointed member representing Safe Kids Worldwide Buckle Up Program.

“Alexis has been a champion for child passenger safety for more than two decades,” said Amy Artuso, NCPSB secretariat and program manager at the National Safety Council. “We are excited to have her join our Board and help advance our mission of saving lives and preventing injuries.”

Kagiliery has been a certified Child Passenger Safety Technician Instructor since 1998. She served as the lead instructor for the former National Highway Traffic Safety Administration’s Administrator and has taught CPS certification training in the United Arab Emirates, Abu Dhabi and Qatar. Kagiliery also is an honorary member of the Florida State Safe Kids Coalition Advisory Committee.

“There is nothing more important than protecting our most vulnerable occupants each time we get in our vehicles,” Kagiliery said. “Joining the Board is another way for me to advocate for the well-being of our children.”
